Dear Pastors,

I am excited that missionary Kevin Byers and his family are working hard to gain monthly support so they can minister at Eifel Baptist Church. The fact is more help is badly needed here at Eifel Baptist Church and I believe our efforts will multiply with Kevin's help.

One person cannot adequately meet the needs of this multifaceted military Church. Most of the Military Churches in Europe, especially here in Germany; have at least one man beside the pastor to minister to the spiritual needs of military members and their dependants.

In the States there are folks that will remain at one church for many years or be there a lifetime. In a military setting this is not so, most of the time our members are with us for only two or three years. We barely get new converts qualified and trained for service before they are ready to leave for another base or separate from active duty. While this is wonderful for churches and Bible colleges in the states, it is devastating to our ministry here. Some of you may have been blessed by troops from our little church here in Germany.

Many of the folks that we are getting into our church are immature in their spiritual lives. Therefore, they need to be taught faithfulness to personal devotions, church attendance, soul winning, tithing, and Godly living. We want our folks to be saturated with Bible knowledge in the limited amount of time they are with us. We are winning handfuls to the Lord while thousands slip through the cracks each year.

The Church here strives to meet the spiritual needs of our military families, but with people here for such a short period of time, we need the Byers family to help provide consistency to the Ministry. Many New Testament missionaries had co-laborers and we are praying the Lord will speed Kevin and his family along their way to work beside us at Eifel Baptist Church.

Sincerely,

Pastor Herb Curriden
